

WOULD HAVE KILLED KING LEOPOLD AT HIS WIFE'S MEMORIAL SERVICE

An Assassin Fires Three Shots at the Belgian Ruler, But Fails to Hit Him.

MAN IS ARRESTED

Belgians Say It Is Too Bad That Leopold Was Not Killed; No Pity Shown.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.) Brussels, Nov. 15.—An attempt to assassinate King Leopold was made today immediately after the religious service held in memory of the late queen. The king was uninjured and the would-be assassin was arrested by police who were present.

No Sympathy The Belgians who were present at the time of the shooting showed no pity nor any sympathy for the king and frequent expressions of "It would have served him right if he had been hit," were heard on all sides from prominent men.

His Majesty had just left the cathedral when a man was seen to draw a revolver and at the distance of a few feet fire point blank at the king. That the king was unharmed has led to the expression that the revolver was unloaded and it was for dramatic effect.

People Angry The people are all very angry over the actions of the late king and his relations to his late wife and no one expressed either fear or regret.

Had Bullets The would-be assassin's revolver was loaded with bullets and one nearly hit the Grand Marshall of the Palace. The people show no excitement over the affair and when it was announced that His Majesty was safe no cheers were raised.

CLEAR THE NAME OF MAXIMILIAN

An Investigating Committee Completely Exonerates Former Emperor of Blame.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.) City of Mexico, Nov. 15.—General Bernardo Reyes, minister of war, some time ago set on foot an examination into the authenticity of a letter alleged to have been sent by Archduke Maximilian to Colonel Lopez of his army during the siege of Queretaro in 1867 by the republican forces.

The Letter In this letter Maximilian earnestly charged Colonel Lopez to keep a secret which would be damaging to the writer's reputation. The secret was believed to be that Lopez surrendered the convent of La Cruz by order of Maximilian, who was thus put in the light of betraying his followers to save his own life.

Clears Maximilian The investigating committee completely clears Maximilian from the grave imputation against his character. It is shown on the evidence of the military writing experts that the letter is an undoubted forgery, and that Maximilian had no need to write to Lopez, who was at Queretaro at the time, and had frequent interviews with Maximilian.

New York, Nov. 15.—Miss Nora Stanton Blatch, the favorite grand-daughter of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton and a student in the civil engineering department of Cornell university, believes that the work which her grandmother sought to accomplish has not yet been completed. Accordingly, very soon after the death of Mrs. Stanton, she set to work to organize a club on political equality among the women of the university. The organization was perfected today and Miss Blatch was made its president. Miss Blatch entered Cornell in the arts course two years ago and immediately became a leader among the women as a student. Last fall she took the examinations of the college of civil engineering. Three other women tried and Miss Blatch was the only one admitted, she being the first woman to take the civil engineering course at Cornell. Miss Blatch is tall, attractive and pretty and is a great social favorite.

ALDERMEN DISOBEY AND JAIL AWAITS THEM

Colorado Court Issues Injunction Forbidding Franchise Extension, Which Council Ignores.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 15.—The members of the city council will be arrested and thrown into jail, according to Judge Mullins, whose injunction the members of the municipal body ignored. A similar order served on the county commissioners was obeyed, or a like fate would await that board. The Denver Tramway company had demanded a twenty year franchise, with a concealed clause that would enable it to abolish transfers and extend the franchise of the parent company, with exclusive rights, for an indefinite time. The trick was discovered by the attorneys of the Municipal league and an injunction was obtained. After the reading of the injunction the aldermen, by a vote of 11 to 1, passed the ordinance. The commissioners of Arapahoe county, who go out of office on the first of the year, had arranged to rebate nearly $600,000 in taxes to railroad corporations, and it is claimed had boasted that they would get even with the people for turning them down. When the commissioners assembled the injunction was read, and the commissioners formally entered a motion declining to waive the taxes.

SUBMARINE BOATS VALUE PROVEN

Wonderful Test of the New Model Boat and Its Expert Work Done.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.) New York, Nov. 15.—No battleship that floats could have escaped the Whitehead torpedo launched from the new submarine torpedo boat Adder this morning in Peconic bay had it been lying in the place designated by the red and white flags, 150 feet apart, which represented the vitals of a battleship. The torpedo passed ten feet or thereabouts outside of the mark, but well within the distance which would have torn the stanchion war vessel afloat into pieces.

The Trial The specifications for the trial included that the torpedo should be discharged at the end of the two mile submerged run, straightaway, during which not more than three observations of not to exceed one minute each were permissible.

Having met every requirement in regard to the speed, and, in fact, having exceeded the requirements from a knot a wash, the contractors voluntarily offered, instead of making the comparatively easy two mile run, followed by the discharge of the torpedo, to make a mile run, submerged, make a turn, and return to the starting point, the firing of the torpedo to take place there. The trial board recognized this as being a much more difficult test and accepted the proposition.

A Great Surprise To the surprise of those who witnessed the trial in making the turn at the lower end of the course Capt. Cable made it under water and did not take his first observation until the Adder was straightened out on the homeward course. At the time the Adder rose for its first observation it was in almost a direct line for the mark at the finish, thus demonstrating its ability to maneuver with great certainty when completely submerged.

MAY CUT FOREIGN POSTAL RATES SOON

Postmaster Payne Has a Plan to Reduce the Cost of Mail Transmissions.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.) Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Postmaster General Payne will urge upon Congress at the forthcoming session the advisability of a radical reduction in the postage rates to the leading commercial nations of Europe. He will argue that this step will prove a powerful stimulus to foreign trade, and that the loss in revenue will be speedily compensated by the increase in business.

The Rates The present rate is 5 cents per half ounce on letters to foreign countries, save Canada and Mexico, between which and the country the same postage rates are applied as are imposed on mail in this country. It is proposed to put the governments of England, Germany and France on the same footing. In view of the greatly increased volume of commercial transactions between this country and Europe the foreign rate is held to be entirely disproportionate to the domestic rate, and serves as a detriment to the business interests of the country.

In Convention The project will have to be carried through by conventions with the other countries mentioned. So soon as the assent of Congress is secured Germany, England and France will be approached, and conventions with other countries along the same lines will be left for future consideration.

ARE HUSTLING THE PANAMA TREATY

Canal Company Anxious To Close the Deal with the United States.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.) Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Mr. Cromwell, counsel for the Panama Canal company, called at the State department today and had a long conference with Secretary Hay respecting the next steps to be taken in view of Attorney General Knox's opinion on the sufficiency of the canal title, to carry out the transfer of the property to the United States government.

The Spooner act requires a treaty with Colombia to be made before the canal company's property is actually purchased by the United States government, but this treaty is now well advanced toward completion, so that it is deemed proper to consider other measures relating to the French title. It is also understood that after a full conference with such senatorial leaders as have been in Washington recently Secretary Hay has pretty well satisfied himself that if such a thing were desirable congress would readily amend the Spooner act to wipe out the condition that a treaty must precede the purchase. In such case, the canal property having been bought, the United States government would go ahead with the work of construction, leaving the treaty negotiations to follow. But the negotiations between Secretary Hay and Senator Concha have progressed so satisfactorily as to warrant the belief that no recourse to further legislation will be necessary.

IS THOUGHT CRAZY

It Was Either the German Emperor or King Edward That Was To Be Killed.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.)

UNIQUE SMUGGLING PLAN REVEALED

Baker of an Incoming Ship Helps Italians To Come into the Country Free.

(Special By Scripps-McRae.) New York, Nov. 15.—Charged with smuggling aliens into the United States by a method unique and ingenious, Auguste Meliore, chief baker on the steamship Roma, has been placed in jail here.

Arnold Cappa, an Italian alien, is detained by the immigration authorities, and federal officers are searching for other immigrants who are alleged to have landed illegally. The Roma arrived Sunday.

According to Cappa the baker offered, for 25 lire, to dress him in white cap and apron, the regulation baker's garb, so that he could land without having to undergo official inspection. Cappa says that he and four other aliens took up the offer. The immigration officers passed them as members of the crew. In searching for the Italian colony Cappa got lost and began to ask questions. Going back toward the ship he innocently told his tale to a customs inspector and was immediately detained. On his affidavit the French baker was arrested.

ELECTROLYSIS IS NOT NECESSARY

EMINENT AUTHORITY SAYS IT MAY BE PREVENTED.

SOME TIMELY SUGGESTIONS

Gas and Water Companies May Be Indifferent to the Street Railway Tracks.

While there is so much talk about the water and gas mains and underground electrolysis, caused by a leakage of the electrical current from the street railway tracks, a few of the statements made by William Borah of Boston in a recent address on electrolysis delivered at a fire chiefs' convention might be interesting. Under the surface of the street are laid gas and water pipes. Once properly laid they could be relied upon for from twenty to thirty years, until the advent of electric street railways. Then the world became a great electro plating bath at times, and the destructive and rapid corrosion of gas and water mains and lead covered underground cables commenced.

With the destruction of water pipes the city is often at the mercy of fires, and the failure of gas pipes from the same cause, may cause loss of life and destruction of property.

What it is Electrolysis is the separation of a chemical compound into its constituent parts by the use of an electrical current.

A length of seven inch cast iron pipe one-half inch thick weighs 449 pounds, and if a flow 232 amperes was maintained steadily for a year from it through the ground, if the rate of decomposition was the same as in an electrolytic cell, it would be entirely consumed. This might not be true in all cases, because the same conditions do not exist in all kinds of soils. Dry sandy soils are poor conductors; wet loam or clay are better conductors. When earth of any kind is saturated with water it offers less resistance by electricity than when dry. Where iron pipes are attacked in earth that is always moist the decomposition will continue as long as the current continues to flow.

Not Great Unharmfulness Decomposition does not take place uniformly over the entire surface of the pipes, but in spots, so that the amount of iron decomposed need not be so great to cause leaks in the pipes, as if the whole surface was attacked at the same time. This is also the case with lead pipes, and it is not necessary to decompose anything like the weight of metal contained in a pipe to render it unsafe or useless. While the soil is wet the iron at the point where it is attacked takes the form of a soft pasty substance. So long as it is moist, the iron under it being clean and bright. The condition exists so long as the soil is wet and the current continues to flow. When the soil becomes dry and remains so for some time, the flow of current from the pipe decreases or stops and the paste becomes hard, as it, and the surface iron under it becomes oxidized.

The Circuit A street railway circuit consists of a dynamo or a number of them, an overhead trolley wire and the rails which the cars run on. Current is taken from the trolley wire by means of its trolley wheel and arm and then to the motor and then to the rails, over which it or a part of it, flows back to the negative side of the dynamo. If all of the current is returned to the dynamo, the rails there would be no electrolytic corrosion of gas and water pipes, but under the ground in the immediate neighborhood of the street railway tracks, but as the rails are not continuous conductors it is found somewhat difficult to do so.

A Difficult Task For various reasons it has been found difficult to maintain the continuity of the rail as a conductor of electricity at the joints. It is difficult to maintain a good connection between copper and steel. These oxidation takes place. If this goes on steadily the resistance of the joint increases and the current seeks to earth, then the water and gas pipes, then leaves them again, when electrolytic corrosion takes place in proportion to the amount of the current flowing, which increases with the number of imperfect bonds at the joints.

No Need For It

There is no use for this state of affairs, as electrolysis is in a measure preventable. There are but two means to prevent it. The use of the double trolley wire, both overhead and underground, thus abandoning the use of the rails as a part of the electrical circuit. The other one that is resorted to most generally is to bond the rails in the best possible manner and re-enforce the rails with return feeders when necessary.

A plan to prevent electrolytic corrosion of pipes has lately been tried with great success by a gas company, who connected their pipes with insulating joints. Tests have been made since this work was completed and it is now a matter of indifference to this company what condition the street railway tracks are in.

The Remedy Proved The remedies that should be applied in all cases are, namely, the best possible kind of track construction, next training the pipe lines of current, and last the insertion of insulators in the pipe lines.

The first should be made imperative, the second is but a partial remedy, and the last is far superior to the second, as it will prove an effectual barrier to the flow of current over gas or water pipes.

PHONE PROPERTY TO BE SOLD SOON

Papers in the Foreclosure Proceedings Have Been Filed in the Circuit Court.

Papers in the foreclosure proceedings of W. D. Gray, representing the German American Bank of Milwaukee, against the Badger State Long Distance Telephone company, were filed in the circuit court yesterday afternoon. These papers had been served on C. W. Twining, and George L. Pullen, president and secretary of the telephone company.

In consequence of the action taken at a recent meeting of the directors of the telephone company, the foreclosure proceedings will be carried out at once and the members of the company are arranging among themselves to purchase the bonds at the enforced sale. The stockholders in the company have the greatest confidence in it as a business investment and will double their holdings, raising the amount to purchase the bonds and stop the interest rates. The stockholders have been dissatisfied for some time with the methods by which the company's business was being transacted and a complete reorganization will follow the sale.

New Proposition

In the foreclosure sale the property must bring more than $40,000, to leave anything for the stockholders. A circular letter has been mailed to the stockholders stating that parties with good financial backing make the proposition to purchase the various interests represented in the company and offer $25 cash for each share or $50 worth of stock in the new organization in exchange. This transfer, if made, must take place before the foreclosure sale.

MACHINERY HERE FOR NEW FACTORY

Will Be Stored in the Hough Porch Shade Company's Warehouse Until Plant is Completed.

Eight car loads of machinery and material for the Hough Porch Shade company's plant have arrived in the city, having been shipped from the factory at Worcester, Mass. The cars are being unloaded and the machinery and stock stored in the company's new warehouse, which is practically completed. The machinery will be installed as soon as the different parts of the factory buildings are ready for it.

Work on the buildings is being rushed and is progressing in a most satisfactory manner. Don Farnsworth is superintending the work personally and he confidently expects to have the plant completed and running by the first of the year.

Many Employees Here Mr. Hough has not arrived from the east yet but he will be in the city by the time that the plant is ready for the machinery. A large number of the company's employees have arrived and are now at work about the new plant. B. C. Gardner, the company's machinist, has moved his family here and he will have charge of installing the machines as soon as the buildings are in readiness. Will Pinckney, a machine operator is also here and will be busy in getting the machines ready to set up. A. Hubbard, foreman for the company, has been here for the past two weeks and last evening his family arrived in the city.

Busy Season Assured The indications are that the plant will be rushed with work from the very start. Orders are being received every day and a prosperous and busy season is assured. The members of the company believe that even their increased facilities will be taxed to the limit to meet the market demands for next season.

BASKET BALL IS STILL PLAYED

"Coeds" of the High School Are Getting Ready for the Athletic Season—Practice Twice a Week.

Nine of the young ladies of the high school met for basket ball practice last evening. Of this number practically all had had no experience whatever in the game, and were mastering the rudiments of the sport, the majority of them being members of the freshmen class, although there were a few sophomores and juniors who had never played the game. The seniors had no representative, perhaps as much because they have not enough material to get out a class team, as that all of their members are already proficient basket ball players.

Lady Players All of these young ladies are looking forward to a successful season, both for the first team and for the class teams. The first team expects to accompany the basket ball team, made-up from the male members of the high school, during the season, although Manager Norris is non-committing as to the schedule to be played, or as to the work to be taken up by the team.

After Football None of the regular teams will get out for practice until the football eleven have disbanded for the year. Then all attention in high school athletic circles will be turned to basket ball. The Junior class have already chosen the captain of their girls' basket ball team. Miss Grace Conroy will act in that capacity.

A CARD We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50-cent bottle of Green's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

SEWER IS NOT YET PUT IN

Blodgett Milling Company Are Still Obstructing the Construction of the Wall Street Sewer.

The Wall street sewer has not yet been laid into the race near the Blodgett mill. The main objection to the sewer seems to be that the mill company is afraid that the odors arising from it may spoil their flour stored in their warehouse over the race. They claim that the water running under the warehouse keeps it damp so that the doors have to be kept open the most of the time to keep the flour dry and the smell would rise with the moisture and spoil the flour.

Another Claim They also claim that the syndicate that now owns or controls all of the water power in the raceway, except theirs, may fill up the raceway and in case that is done they would want a basement under their building and they would want some assurance from the city, that they would take care of the sewer in case this was done.

Will Settle In all probability some arrangement will be made between the city and the mill company so that the sewer may be completed.

JOLLY OF JOLIET LAUGHABLE COMEDY

Musical Comedy with Edward Garvey in Title Part, Was Cordially Received at Opera House.

"Mr. Jolly of Joliet" proved one of the jolliest of Jolly merry-makers who have visited the city. Edward Garvey in the title role has actually succeeded in creating a part which has more or less originality and distinctiveness. Of course it is suggestive at many points of the numberless good things that have gone before, but it has enough points of merit peculiar to itself to satisfy any reasonable amusement lover.

Mr. Garvey's wife, or as she is known on the stage, Mollie Thompson, the other member of the sketch team, of Jolly and Joliet, does a ranting Bowery tough sort of part, with a considerable degree of merit. She usually appears in a hideous make-up, which added to a cultivated guttural tone quality makes the part far from attractive, and effectually disguises any natural beauty that she may possess. The team sing a little song entitled, "Two Rosebuds," which it is safe to say has not been duplicated on this stage. No pretence is made at artistic merit; it only bids for a hearty laugh, and it gained it, in spite of the fact that so few were present that anyone who smiled or applauded made a conspicuous show of himself.

The book, which is from the pen of Charles Newman, abounds in witty, original expression, an idea of which may be gained from the single example: "You talk like a bucket of nails." It would be useless to attempt to profess any higher merit for the play than that of the vaudeville, for that is all that the author claims for it. The songs are those of the species, and the musical features are introduced with the dances and novelty skits of the stock vaudeville. In the midst of a farcical musical comedy which makes no pretence of being more than a tickler for the risibilities of the listeners, it is more than a surprise to find introduced a quartette, "The Premier," which is musical in the truest sense. Each member, Healey, Byrd, Steele and Kane is an artist, endowed with a voice of unusual timber and vibrant power, which blends exquisitely with the other voices.

Maudie Allison, as the Swedish servant girl, was easily the favorite with the audience, when she sang in company with John Allison, "Just Because I Love You So," responding later to two encores. Her humor is of a genuine and unrestrained character which took immensely with the house.

Of the remainder of the company, it is sufficient to say that they were adequately suited to the work, and in personal appearance every member who was cast for an attractive part looked it, although there were rather more than the usual number of "fright" characters.

STATE PRIZE WON BY E. F. SCHUMACHER

He Received Twenty Dollars for Securing New Members for the A. O. U. W. Lodge.

Twenty dollars in gold is the prize which has been awarded by the Wisconsin Grand Lodge Ancient Order of United Workmen to E. F. Schumacher, of this city. The prize was offered to the lodge member who secured the greatest number of members for the lodge during the year from Oct. 1, 1901 to Oct. 1, 1902. During the year Mr. Schumacher secured twenty-two new members, not counting reinstatements.

Mr. Schumacher is master workman of Olive Branch Lodge No. 38 A. O. U. W. and it was largely due to his individual efforts and to the interest which he aroused in others that the local lodge won the state banner for the largest increase in membership.

TRADES' COUNCIL WANTS NEW HALL

ASSEMBLY HALL WILL PROBABLY BE GIVEN UP.

CONSIDER RENTAL TOO HIGH

Dances Interfere with Regular Meetings—Several New Unions Have Applied for Charters.

Action was taken at the monthly meeting of the Federated Trades council, held Wednesday evening, which it is believed will result in the rental of a new hall for the use of the unions of the city. Their members are dissatisfied with the hall at the present rate of rental, and in addition the council would have more convenient quarters if there was not the danger of being obliged to give up a regular meeting in favor of a dance, as often is the case with the present Assembly hall.

Early in October a notice was given to Hayes Brothers, the owners of the hall, asking them to accept an annual offer for the hall, one-fifth lower than the price now paid. One month was taken for the consideration of the proposition, and as no answer was received the first of this month, the conclusion was drawn that the Hayes Brothers refused to make the concession. Consequently action was taken Wednesday night appointing a committee to look up the possibility of renting another hall.

No Hall If the present hall is given up, and other quarters secured, no attempt will be made to control a hall for rental purposes. Simply three or four rooms will be secured which can be fitted up for the exclusive use of the unions. There are now seventeen unions, including the Trades Council which have regular meetings once or twice a month, and that means that almost every night there is at least one meeting to be held and sometimes two or three.

When the hall is rented, as it is at present, the regular meetings are often interfered with, and the work of the unions is severely handicapped in consequence. Charters have been applied for several new unions, and it will be more important than now that their meetings should not be interfered with.

The objection which is made to the hall at the present time, the rental which is being paid, is that since the recent completion of another centrally located hall, suitable for high class entertainments and dancing parties, the Assembly hall will not be in as great demand, unless thoroughly repaired and improved.

ART LEAGUE HEARS FROM CONVENTION

Mrs. Charles Tarrant Entertained the Members and Gave Her Delegate's Report.

Members of the Janesville Art League were charmingly entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of their president, Mrs. Charles Tarrant, 138 North Jackson street. It was the occasion of the monthly business meeting, the business program including the report from the Wisconsin State Federation of Women's Clubs, held at Ashland, October 22-31.

Mrs. Tarrant was the Art League's delegate to the convention and she gave a very complete and entertaining report. It was all the more pleasant because the gathering had been made an informal one, the ladies having been invited to hear their needlework with them. The afternoon was spent most enjoyably, and at 5 o'clock a delicious luncheon was served prettily, deep red carnations forming the table decorations. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mesdames E. O. Kimberley, A. E. Tanberg and George Osgood and little Miss Miriam Tanberg.

C. H. Hamilton

The central object in Europe during last summer was the coronation of King Edward of England. In taking it for the topic of an illustrated lecture, ex-City Attorney C. H. Hamilton of Milwaukee has secured a subject in the explication of which he will have no competitors on the platform during the coming winter. Another entertaining topic which he has woven into his account of his summer's journeyings is the London of Dickens. The reports from Fond du Lac, where Mr. Hamilton delivered the lecture for the first time, indicate that he scored a decided success. At the opera house Wednesday next.

HORSE HAS NOT BEEN HEARD FROM

No Trace of the Missing Rig Stolen In This City on Last Tuesday

So far the officers have not been able to locate the horse and buggy taken from in front of the Franklin house about 9 o'clock on the evening of November 11. Police in all parts of the state are on the look-out for the missing rig, but the thief seems to have succeeded in getting away with the outfit without being detected.

This is the third or fourth time that rigs have been stolen from this city in the same manner, and the thieves have not been caught. It must be that they have some place not far distant from the city, that it is easy to drive to during the night where they keep the stolen rigs until the excitement has died down and the rigs are then disposed of.

The description of the stolen property is as follows: Sorrel horse, weight about 1,100 pounds, age 13, light colored mane and tail; notch in right ear; top buggy, painted black, side spring with cross-spring under the box; a square blanket, buckle gone; light grey lap robe. Sheriff Maltress, under-Sheriff Cochrane, or any of the police will be pleased over any information as to its whereabouts.

FROM LAW TO THE GOSPEL WAS THEME

C. N. Hunt Spoke with Power and Impressiveness Upon His Life History—No Services Today.

Charles N. Hunt told a large audience at the Baptist church last evening the story of his life. Probably none of his talks this week has had the effect which that one had. His simple, calm and logical style of discourse showed up with unusual impressiveness on that subject. He employs no bombastic speech or high-flown oratorical figures, but with plain, direct and almost childlike simplicity, he tells his powerful story.

Law To Gospel

"From the Law to the Gospel," was the subject under which he spoke and in it he followed simply the facts of his life from birth down to his adoption of his present life. The audience was probably larger than any which has attended the services this week, although large audiences have been the rule. Each night has been an improvement over the night before, so far as numbers were concerned.

Mr. Hunt's style is of growing attractiveness. The first time that he speaks his words do not have the same force and impressiveness as the last. His absence of showy and sensational methods perhaps accounts for this.

Mr. King Sings As has been the case throughout the week, Mr. King led the singing, and strengthened the musical part of the service by his violin playing. The "Sunbeam Choir" did not sing last evening, but will be present to add their childish voices to the song service of Sunday. The children's choir was drilled last evening after school hours, an daisio today. No meetings whatever will be held today, but tomorrow will be the great way of the first week.

Tomorrow's Services.

Mr. Hunt will lead the services morning and evening, and in the afternoon will preside over a meeting for men at the Y. M. C. A. building. The meetings will also be continued during the coming week, and the numbers who have been thronging to hear Messrs. Hunt and King during the past week, will probably be equally large next week.

BEFORE THE FOOTLIGHTS.

This coming week promises well for the theater goes at the Opera House. Opening Monday night comes "The Power Behind the Throne" followed on Wednesday by Charles Hamilton with an illustrated lecture, Thursday the rising actor Emmett Corrigan in the "Prince of Dreams" and Saturday a matinee and evening performance of the melodramatic play, "A Gambler's Daughter."

Katherine Willard's Phenomenal Success

"The Power Behind the Throne" is a romantic drama in four acts founded on Schiller's classic, "Love and Intrigue." The story in brief is as follows: "Aria," the daughter of a court musician, is wooed and won by Baron Von Hohenlohe, the son of the president of an Austrian principality.

season at the beautiful Bush Temple of Music in Chicago on November 24. That Mr. Corrigan has selected an excellent company there can be no doubt, since he is to be "feared" in all productions made at the Bush Temple, and he would hardly care to be surrounded by other than the best players obtainable. Among the better known members of the organization are Messrs. John Daly Murphy, a decided favorite with Janesville playgoers, Ashley Miller, Oscar Briggs, Royle Thayer, Howard Hickman, Edward Hodges, John R. Sumner and the Misses Valle DeVeron, Ethel Browning, Anna Hardiman and Margaret Crofton.

There is much that is novel in the story of "The Prince of Dreams." It is said to be not unlike "A Gilded Fool," with which Mr. Goodwin scored

SUNDAY TRAIN TO BE TAKEN OFF

The Fond du Lac Passenger Will Be Discontinued for the Winter.

The Sunday train on the Northwest-ern between Janesville and Fond du Lac will be discontinued for the winter. The train was put on in July for the accommodation of Sunday visitors to the numerous summer resorts and cities along the line. The train has been a good one for the company and a great accommodation to the traveling public as it made it possible for people to get from Janesville to Fond du Lac between Saturday noon and Monday morning without having to go to Milwaukee. It was the only train running north out of Janesville on Sunday and will be missed by a large number of people.

Miss Percy Haswell in "A Royal Family"

The Duchess Von Waldheim, who is the mistress of the Prince Regent, desired to marry the baron in order to better carry on her liaison with the prince. As the baron remains constant to Aria, the duchess, by schemes and intrigues, has Aria's father imprisoned and her mother placed upon the pillory. To save her parents from shame and death, Aria consents to write an incriminating letter, containing expressions of love for another. This letter is conveniently disclosed to the baron, and Aria is brought to the palace and in his presence forced to play the part of a ed such success, although the central figure widely differs from that in the Goodwin play the comedy element is said to be strong, and the characters are drawn from everyday life. The play will be at the Myers Grand Thursday next.

"A Gambler's Daughter" Coming to the Myers Grand next Saturday is one of the strongest, sensational melo-dramas of the day. "A Gambler's Daughter." The piece was written by Owen Davis, the author also of such successful plays as "Lost in the Desert," "Through the Breakers," etc., and this latest work from his pen has proven one of the most popular of all. It is full of excitement and startling situations throughout the four acts. All the scenery is new and elaborate.

In the cast are the best known actors and actresses of the stage. The leading woman is Miss Miriam Shelby, who is well-known as an idol of the footlights. She makes a sweet, lovable and altogether charming heroine and plays the role with a dash and spirit that an actress may well envy. Camilla Crane, Madeline Wheeler, Elsie Frazee, James Norval, Andrew Quirk are some of the principals in the piece and all are well-known and popular favorites.

Miss Percy Haswell in "A Royal Family" With a strong supporting company, a play that ran two years in New York and what has promised to be an elaborate stage production, Miss Percy Haswell comes to the Myers Grand Thanksgiving Day appearing as the Princess Angela in R. Marshall's regal comedy of romance "A Royal Family."

Miss Haswell is no stranger in this city. She appeared here first as one of the leading lights of Augustin Daly company and last as leading woman for Wm. H. Crane in "A Virginia Courtship." Her youth, beauty and finished art has made her a welcome addition to stellar ranks. She has earned her right to stardom for she has had a stage training extending back to her earlier infancy.

The company supporting Miss Haswell is of unusual strength. It contains such well-known names as Boyd Putnam, Maude Granger, Nancy Padgett, Harry Blackwell, Jeanette Northern, Frank E. Roberts, Robert C. Turner, William Pitt, William Crosby and others.

Miss Haswell comes under the management of Mr. Henry B. Harris who is also manager of Robert Edison and "Mrs. Jack" the comedy success of this season at Wallack's theater, author of "The Second in Command." The play comes here from a two years' run at the Lyceum theater, New York, where the length of its run broke all records for romantic comedies in this country. It is a picturesque story of love and adventure; the scenes are laid in the surroundings of an idyllic kingdom. The play is of such picturesque interest that Anthony Hope had arranged to produce it in story form.

The role of the Princess Angela which Miss Haswell portrays is that of a willful, fascinating daughter of nobility who sets the entire kingdom at odds through her refusal to marry the prince selected for her husband by the royal cabinet. In the happy ending of the story the princess finds that she has fallen in love with the very man she had declined to marry. The outwearing of this story affords many picturesque, human and humorous situations.

KATHERINE WILLARD

heartless coquette; he, now believes her faithless, requests the honor of the duchess' hand in marriage, and later visits Aria with the intention of ending their lives with poison. Under the influence of the drug, and believing the end near at hand, Aria confesses the deception she was compelled to practice, and they apparently die together. It is finally disclosed that the supposed poison was only a sleeping potion substituted by a devoted orderly. Of course they recover and are united. As can be readily recognized, the dramatist has provided many intensely dramatic scenes and powerful situations. The production is sumptuously staged and costumed.

The principal members of the supporting company are Wright Lorker (leading man), Edward Tonnas, George Morton, Guy B. Hoffman, Franklin Salisbury, J. Byron Allenton, Camille Porter, Lena Wallace, Al Morton, Ruth Gadsby, Florence De Lashmutt, and many others.

Prince of Dreams

The newest dramatic attraction of the season is "The Prince of Dreams," described as an extravagant drama in three acts, by Mr. Walter Hackett, a Chicago journalist quite well known, and who has attained recognition in the literary field. ## FINDS MURDERED MAN ON TRACKS

THREE DEEP WOUNDS IN NECK

Train Completes Work of Assassination, the Body Being Severed Just Below the Shoulders—Robbery May Have Been Cause of Crime.

Wheaton, Ill., Nov. 15.—The body of a man, which had been hacked partly into two pieces with a large blunt knife and then laid on the railroad track for a train to complete the dismemberment, was found by James J. Robertson in the yards of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad at West Chicago. Three deep wounds had been made in the neck in addition to the severing of the body. A knife covered with blood was near the body.

Informant Escapes.

Early Thursday morning Yardmaster Robertson was approached by a stranger, who said to him: "You will find the body of a man on the Elgin branch just east of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern track."

Robertson immediately started out to find it. The stranger followed him excitedly until near the place described and then turned and made his escape. He cannot be found and because of the darkness Robertson is unable to give a description of him.

Growsome Sight.

Upon nearing the spot indicated Robertson came upon a hunting cap and then stumbled over the body. It had been severed in two just below the arms. The head and shoulders being inside the track and the rest of the body outside. The body was still warm. In the neck three deep wounds, made by a knife, showed the manner of the victim's death.

The man had worn two black coats of good quality and two pairs of trousers. A duck hunting jacket, but neither gun nor ammunition was found. It is supposed he had come from Chicago after game. Nothing of value was found about the man. His money and watch had been taken, as his clothes gave evidence.

Knife Is Clew.

The only clew which may lead to the solving of the mystery came from the knife, which has the name of a Plainfield firm stamped on a blade and on a page of a memorandum book found in the man's coat was the name Barber. This was nearly erased and indistinct.

Two suspicious characters had been seen about the yards earlier in the evening. No trace has since been found of them. The murdered man was about 45 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighed 140 pounds. He had black hair and mustache and brown eyes.

ACCUSES AMERICAN SURVEYORS

British Columbian Paper Says They Have Encroached on Canadian Soil.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 15.—The Province publishes a charge that United States surveyors have encroached on Canadian territory northeast of Cape Fox and have surveyed into the domain of the United States thousands of square miles of land lying within the dominion boundaries to the westward of Portland canal. It is charged that at the point where the boundary line from Portland canal meets the Stikine river there is an old post supposed to have been erected by the Hudson Bay Company. The Province says it is believed that the American government, by running the line to this post, means to claim that it was placed in position by the Russians.

SHIP ZINC FROM ILLINOIS MINE

Pope County Land Owned by Mrs. McKinley Gives Up Treasure.

Metropolis, Ill., Nov. 15.—The Empire Lead and Spar mines, located on the new branch of the Illinois Central railroad in Pope county, have just shipped the first car load of zinc ore ever mined in the state of Illinois. This mine is on land owned by Mrs. William McKinley and was operated by the Saxtons for several years after the civil war for spar and lead, but they encountered so much carbonate of zinc ore that they finally abandoned it, not knowing the value of the brown-colored rock. Recently operations were resumed by a clever man and the first shipment of zinc ore is a result. Joplin, Mo., capitalists are interested in the claim.

RAIL FACILITIES ARE INSIGNIFICANT

TRADE PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Enormous Crops and Continued Activity in the Manufacturing Department Give Promise of Unprecedented Business During Holidays.

New York, Nov. 15.—"Lower prices for railway stocks than at any time since last March do not necessarily indicate loss of traffic nor a setback in business. On the contrary, coincident with the collapse of the stock market, there were many evidences that manufacturing and transporting interests have not sufficient facilities to meet demands, although plants and equipments are now of greater efficiency than at any previous time." The foregoing is from the weekly trade review of R. G. Dun & Co. It continues:

Holiday Trade.

"Distribution of merchandise is fully maintained, preparations being made for a heavy holiday trade, and frequent complaints of tardy deliveries testify to the heavy consumption. Prospects for continued activity are bright because of unprecedented harvests, prosperity in the agricultural sections assuring a good demand for other products. Threatened labor controversies have been averted, in some cases wages being advanced, while a number of increases were voluntarily given."

Railway Earnings.

"Railway earnings continue to advance, the first week of November showing a rise of 4.8 per cent over 1901 and 15.2 per cent over 1900. High temperature retards retail trade in seasonable goods. Aside from the expected decline in prices of pipes and tubes there has been no evidence of weakness, and all the recent concessions were caused by competition of new plants rather than diminished business. Many purchasers are delaying orders, however, in the hope that the market will go lower in other departments, but there is abnormal support in the light movement of coke."

Footwear and Leather.

"Eastern manufacturers of footwear are offering no inducements to buyers, and, while no actual advances in prices have occurred, the market is decidedly strong. Western shoes are also busy, deliveries in both sections coming so slowly as to cause much complaint. Sole leather is active and firm, both domestic and export sales being large. Some western tanners advanced prices which checked business. Foreign dry hides are abundant and weaker."

Textile Fabrics.

"Limited supplies in first hands and with jobbers have sustained cotton goods, despite the sharp decline in the raw material. Export trade is dull, Chinese business showing the effect of the break in silver, but foreign orders are in the market and could be secured by slight concessions. It is between seasons in the market for woolen goods, though there is some inquiry for heavy weights for quick delivery. Clothing manufacturers report encouraging results in their first rest of the market on spring garments."

"Failures for the week numbered 241 in the United States, against 215 last year, and 24 in Canada, compared with 27 a year ago."

BIG VOTE FOR FAITH REVISION

Plan Needs But Fifty More Presbyteries in Its Favor.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 15.—Information has been received in Pittsburg that 110 of the presbyteries of the Presbyterian church have voted in favor of the revision of the creed. It is a solid vote so far one way and is almost one-half of the total number of presbyteries. It will require only fifty more presbyteries to put the plan through. Letters of appeal are coming to members of the Pittsburg presbytery not to mar the harmony.

COL. BUTLER GETS THREE YEARS

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—Three years in the penitentiary is the punishment meted out at Columbia to Colonel Edward Butler, whom a jury found guilty of trying to bribe Dr. Chapman, a member of the board of health in this city, to favor a city garbage contract on which the millionaire politician sought to enrich himself.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 15.—Information received from the relatives of the late John Gibson is that they will contest the will, by the provisions of which the widowed bride of a week is said to inherit $1,000,000.

MARINES TO LEAVE ISTHMUS

Battalion Going to Culebra Island to Escape Fever.

Washington, Nov. 15.—As a measure of precaution, in view of the appearance of yellow fever, it has been decided to order the marine battalion away from the Isthmus of Panama. They will be taken on the Panther to Culebra Island, where they will go into camp and remain for the present. The flagship Wisconsin probably will proceed leisurely up the Pacific coast to San Francisco, and if another vessel is needed at Panama the cruiser or Boston at San Francisco will be sent there. The Montgomery, now cruising in Haytian waters, being no longer required in that vicinity by reason of the practical cessation of hostilities, will be sent to Colon to replace the Panther in case it is necessary to have a warship in that neighborhood.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Teach Your Children These Most Necessary of Qualities.

Why should children be made cowards? And yet, perhaps unconsciously, that is what every mother is doing when she shows fear in her children's presence. How can you expect your children to have presence of mind when you scream at the slightest little accident—when the horse dances in the carriage shafts or perhaps there is a loud crash during a thunderstorm? On the contrary, control your nerves and teach the children to do likewise. Presence of mind is one of the greatest gifts you have in your power to bestow on your child.

Teach the little ones emergency remedies, what to do in case of fire, when they cut themselves, etc.

I recall the case of a friend of mine who had carefully drilled her small daughter in what she must do in case she caught fire. While playing around the open grate in the sitting room a spark flew, and in a minute her white pinafore was in flames. The brave baby, mindful of her mother's words, threw herself flat on the rug and rolled frantically over and over. By the time

"SHE ROLLED OVER AND OVER" the mother and nurse had reached her, summoned by her cries, she had practically put the fire out. She might have died but for the instruction she had received.

It is a duty to act in the face of danger. I impress this on the children's minds. Last summer a little girl was saved from drowning by the presence of mind of a crippled child who threw her her crutch, urging her to hold on for a minute longer. Help came within that minute, and the child's life was saved.

Instruct the children in a few practical things from the family medical book—how to lay a fainting person flat on her back after opening the windows and never to prop her up after the customary manner; how a bleeding vein should be banded below the cut and an artery, which can be distinguished by its bleeding in spurts, between the wound and the heart.

These and many more are bits of knowledge which may be needed at any moment. HELEN CLIFTON.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 15.—The cabinet has resigned on account of personal differences. It is probable that Premier Danoff will form a new ministry.

Defeats Kabyle Rebels.

Madrid, Nov. 15.—The governor of Tetuan, at the head of 1,000 men, marched out against the Kabyle insurgents and, after five hours' fighting, succeeded in routing the tribesmen.

Heads Woman's Federation. New York, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Charles M. Dow, 77 Allen street, Jamestown, N. Y., was elected president of the Woman's Federation.

MRS. IDA McDONALD,

Supreme Deputy of the Maccabees of the World.

MRS. McDONALD, No. 477 Beaubien Street, Detroit, Mich., is a prominent woman who was greatly benefited by the great woman's medicine, Wine of Cardui. Mrs. McDonald is the supreme deputy of the Maccabees of the World, and one of the most widely known women in the United States. Thousands of women gather to hear her lecture everywhere she goes. The great work she has done for the Maccabees is appreciated by every member of the order. She was so absorbed in her work that she neglected to give her health proper care—failed to take warning that the symptoms of approaching kidney trouble gave her, the shallow complexion and torpid liver. But Wine of Cardui cured her the same as it has cured thousands of others and Mrs. McDonald has written this letter in order that other suffering women may secure from Wine of Cardui the same relief she got from it.

"For four years I suffered with torpid liver until my skin looked yellow and dull. I then found my kidneys were affected and had severe pains across my back, and I felt that I must do something to regain my health. I finally discovered your Wine of Cardui. I decided to try it, although I had little faith in patent medicines. I am now very thankful that I did so, for within ten days blessed relief came to me, and in less than three months I was cured, and have enjoyed fine health ever since. I know there is nothing better for a sick woman who wishes to enjoy perfect health and am very pleased to give my hearty endorsement."

No suffering woman can afford to ignore such a letter as Mrs. McDonald wrote. Her plans and advice have proved valuable in building up one of the greatest women's organizations in the United States and she takes time to give advice which she knows will help you.

Do not delay in securing this medicine. There is nothing to gain and everything to lose by delay. The choice is before you. Will or will you not secure relief now by taking Wine of Cardui? All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui as well as 25c packages of Theodor's Black-Draught.

WINE of CARDUI A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

REFUSES TO SLAY A CAPTIVE BEAR

EXECUTIVE TIRES OF WAITING

Old Southern Guide Knew Where Quarry Would Emerge From Swamp But Took Too Much Time to Drive Frightened Brute to the Open.

Smedes, Miss., Nov. 15.—A lean black bear which weighs 235 pounds is hanging on the Little Sunflower, but to the regret of all the members of the party the first trophy of the hunt did not fall to the president's Winchester.

The bear's trail was struck by the hounds soon after the party started. The members of the party, except the president, Mr. Foote, Mr. Parker and Holt Collier, had been stationed at the various crossings, and as soon as the dogs gave tongue the president and his guides plunged through the dense underbrush in pursuit. Within a few minutes the dogs showed the direction the quarry was taking, and Holt Collier, with the instinct of an old bear hunter, immediately made up his mind where the animal would come out.

President Misses Game.
To save the president needless hard riding through the brush, he directed Mr. Foote to take the president along the trail to a certain cut-off. This was done, and the president and Mr. Foote rode to the assigned station. On their way several swamp deer were jumped up, but no effort was made to get a shot at them.

Then for several hours the president and Mr. Foote waited. The trail of the bear carried the yelling hounds out of hearing, and shortly after noon Mr. Foote abandoned hope that the quarry would come back their way, and he and the president returned to camp for lunch. Had they remained, the president would have had a shot, as the bear, with the pack at its heels, crossed at almost the exact spot which Holt had indicated.

Refuses to Shoot.
About a mile beyond this point bruln, exhausted by his long race, ran into a water hole and turned upon the dogs. The poor beast was too exhausted to make much of a fight. A messenger was sent back for the president. Meantime Collier roped the bear and tied him to a tree. When the president arrived he would neither shoot it nor permit it to be shot.

"Put it out of its misery," said he to Mr. Parker, and the latter ended its life with his knife.

On the way back to camp with the dead bear, the dogs struck a fresh trail, and the president, Mr. Foote, Mr. Mangum, Secretary Cortelyou and Dr. Lung followed it.

A WOMAN'S PLUCK

(Original.)

"Joe Dixby, you wanted for the murder of Tom Venable."

The speaker had ridden up to a cabin on a plantation in the south and addressed a man sitting in a chair before his door. Dixby was a northern man who, having lost his health, had decided to live an outdoor life in a genial climate. With his wife he had gone south and settled in Georgia.

"Tom Venable? Who's Tom Venable?" said Dixby with a bewildered air. His question was not answered, for at the moment a number of men joined the first corner, and handclaps were clapped on Dixby's wrists. Alice, Joe's wife, came to the door in time to see her husband led away.

"They think I've murdered somebody, Alice," said Joe, "and are going to take me to town for a few days, but it'll all come out right. Don't worry."

It was soon after the close of the civil war and at the height of the carpetbag days, when northern settlers in the south were in constant terror. The "committee" had pounced upon Joe more for the purpose of terrorizing carpetbaggers than in the cause of justice. Instead of taking him to a county seat and turning him over to the authorities, they camped near a deserted log cabin, in which they confined him. After supper they smoked and considered what to do with him. The conclusion was to give him a Judge Lynch trial the next morning, the result of which was predetermined. A man was left on guard at the cabin door, and the party went to sleep in a barn near by.

When Alice Dixby saw her husband led away by the committee on a charge of murder, she knew exactly what it meant. For awhile she believed they were taking him to immediate execution, and the thought paralyzed her mentally and physically. Then came the hope that they might delay the murder, and she began to think what she could do to save him. After many plans had been considered and abandoned she hit upon one which she proceeded to put into practice. Arming herself with the only weapon in the house, she took a horse from the stable and followed the party at a distance. About 2 o'clock in the morning she suddenly appeared before the men in charge of the prisoner and begged piteously for an interview.

"Couldn't on no account," replied the guard. "Go away from yere or I'll call out the committee."

"What'll they do with him?"

"Vaal, I reckon they'll hang him to-morrow."

Alice pleaded so hard for one last goodbye that the guard finally consented. While she was inside he listened to the conversation, which was a waiting on the part of the woman and attempts to reassure her on the part of the man. At last she bade him farewell and came out. The guard of course kept a rifle ready to receive the prisoner should he attempt to leave when the door was open, but did not expect such an emergency, the words of the man within pointing to a hope that he would be able to prove his innocence. The guard did not know that Alice between her moans had been talking in whispers.

"Take this for your kindness," said Alice, giving the guard a watch, "and whenever you look at it think of the woman you have befriended."

The man took the watch, and, resting his rifle in the hollow of his shoulder, strained his eyes in the darkness to examine it. Alice stood by and a little behind him. Suddenly he felt cold metal against his temple and knew that it was the muzzle of a pistol.

"If you move or cry out," said Alice, "I'll pull the trigger." Then she called in a low voice, "All right, Joe!"

As Joe left the cabin Alice felt the guard move. She pressed the steel harder against his temple, reminding him that it was still there, and he resumed his immobility. He saw his prisoner disappear in the darkness and heard a horse crashing through the bushes. The sounds ceased; still Alice stood rigid. Had the guard seen the pale face above him and recognized that she was straining every nerve to keep from swooning he might have risked a stroke for the upper hand. He waited, expecting every moment a change in the situation, but no change came. Finally he said:

"How long's this goin' to last?"

"Move and you die!"

Alice knew that all depended on keeping the man as he was as long as possible. Joe was not mounted on a fleet horse, and unless he secured a good start it would be easy for the dozen men who had arrested him going in different directions to catch him. The watch, which the guard still held in his hand, not daring to make a motion to throw it down, ticked loudly. To steady herself Alice counted his beats, but a minute seemed so long that she desisted. A gray streak appeared in the east, and she could see the time. It was 4 o'clock. She had entered the cabin about 3. Joe had an hour's start. The arm that held the weapon was ready to drop, but she did not dare change the hand for fear the prisoner would take advantage of the act to break the situation.

It was sunrise, and Alice knew that Joe was safe, when a man emerged from the barn and saw her and her prisoner. Calling the others, he went over to the hut.

"Drop that," he said to Alice. She dropped her weapon, and the man picked it up, then burst into a roar of laughter.

It was the empty barrel of a pistol with neither lock nor stock.

PLAYS WITH SNAKES.

Two-Year-Old Denver Boy Takes Pleasure and Delight in Handling Reptile Pets.

Probably the smallest snake charmer in this country, at least, is "Brother" Latham, the two-year-old son of Albert Latham, of Denver. Where the baby gets his inclination and his bravery is not known, but he gets his opportunities because his uncle, Harry Davis, is a well-known snake fancier.

The baby enjoys nothing more than to play with some of the harmless snakes which his uncle will allow him to handle. The uncle's favorite reptile is the rattlesnake—probably because there is an element of danger in handling them.

This fancy has cost Mr. Davis seven bites already, but each time he has wrapped his arm tightly to shut off circulation and has sucked the poison from the wound, feeling no ill effects.

There will be no more rattlesnake bites inflicted by his collection of snakes for the present, at least, as the last of his favorites was killed recently in an encounter with a bull snake. He himself saw the fight, but he allowed it to proceed too far to save the rattler after it was in the coils of its antagonist.

When Mr. Davis observed the conflict the rattler was coiled ready to strike, and both snakes were flashing out their tongues at each other. The bull kept well out of range, and simply circled around the rattler, seeming to watch for an opening. This circular movement finally frightened the rattler, and it uncoiled and endeavored to glide away. That was the bull's opportunity, and before the rattler could coil again it had been seized just back of the neck, and was in the coils of the bull.

Mr. Davis ran to the rescue of his favorite, but before he could be of service the bull straightened out its coils, and he could feel the bones of the rattler crack as they pulled out of place.

BUZZARD FLEW AWAY.

And with Him Went Game Rooster
That Was Tied to His Feet for a Hot Fight.

Jack Willis, of Winchester, Ky., former representative in the legislature, enjoys the reputation of being a practical joker of no mean capacity. His brother-in-law, George Ballard, a prominent breeder of fine horses and owner of Pincham Wilkes, a noted pacer, has on his place a pen of highly bred game chickens.

While George was showing Jack his favorite rooster and expatiating on his great prowess Jack pretended to regard the bird as a very ordinary chicken and said he could whip him with a buzzard.

A hot argument ensued resulting in a match being arranged for between the rooster and a buzzard, which Jack agreed to produce. Jack had a trap set, and in a short time his uncommon warrior, a very large buzzard, was brought to him.

According to the terms of the contest the rooster was duly equipped with gaffs, and the two birds were linked together by the feet with a yard or so of stout cord intervening to give room for action, as Jack explained.

As the rooster braced himself for the onslaught the buzzard regarded him with stolid indifference, and at the first pass lifted his wings and sailed away, with the rooster squawking in its wake. George ran for a gun, but before he could get back with it the buzzard and the rooster were high in the air and away out of reach of his fowling piece. The distressing cries of the unfortunate rooster grew fainter and fainter, until finally they were heard no more, and the ill-mated pair faded away in the ether blue. Nothing has since been heard of the birds, and while Jack is telling the story with much gusto George is mourning the loss of his best gamecock.
